Atleta refugiada Manizha Talash é desclassificada dos Jogos Olímpicos por mensagem política botmillion cassino capa

A refugee athlete Manizha Talash was disqualified from the B-Girl breaking competition at the Olympic Games for wearing a cap with the words "Women Free" during the botmillion cassino battle of breaking on Friday.

A 21-year-old who fled Afghanistan after the Taliban began to take control of the country, is now in Spain and represents the Refugee Team at the 2024 botmillion cassino, as a B-girl Talash.

While she was competing in the botmillion cassino debut during the pre-qualifier battle, Talash revealed a blue cap with the words "Women Free" on it, asking for the emancipation of women in Afghanistan.

The International Federation of Sportive Dance, which governs the sport, issued a statement on Friday saying that "B-Girl TALASH (EOR) was disqualified for displaying a political slogan on her clothing during the pre-qualifier battle. The results were updated according to the regulations."

Before the start of the competition, Talash said: "I didn't leave Afghanistan because I'm afraid of the Taliban or because I can't live in Afghanistan. I left because I want to do what I can for the girls in Afghanistan, for my life, my career, for everyone."

Under the Taliban regime, Afghanistan became the most oppressive country in the world, according to the United Nations. The Islamist fundamentalist group closed schools for girls, banned women from attending universities, restricted travel without a male companion and banned them from public spaces like parks and academies.

The Taliban's moral police also disproportionately targets women and girls, creating a "climate of fear and intimidation", according to a UN report published last month.

Talash discovered the sport of breaking by watching videos on social media. However, her training was interrupted as she searched for a place to establish herself. A breaker she became one of the 37 athletes representing the Refugee Olympic Team at the Paris 2024 botmillion cassino and is proud to be part of it.

"All refugees have a very difficult life, but they will go to the Games", she said. "For me, being part of the team means strength." She added: "The people in my country and the girls tell me: 'You need to learn to cook and clean the house.'"

Breaking flourished in the streets of New York and other cities in the USA since the 1970s, but Paris marks the first time that its athletes, known as B-boys and B-girls, have their own movimentações no palco mais importante do mundo.

A mensagem de Talash pode ter violado as regras contra slogans políticos nos Jogos Olímpicos, mas também a encontrou fãs.

"Gostaria de dizer que apenas 11 minutos de breaking e um competidor já tirou um surpresa jaqueta que diz "Mulheres Afegãs Livres"-ISSO é breaking. ISSO é a cultura do hip-hop", Nadira Goffe, escritora associada na Slate magazine, escreveu botmillion cassino X.
