you want a clear sense of the modern Conservative Party, and to understand a total extension of the damage it caused during its last period in office there are few better places than to start with the relationship with the Yemen. In the final decade of the 2010s it was the stage for the worst humanitarian disaster in the world "according to the United Nations (UN).

It was not a natural disaster. It was caused by man, and a large part of it was caused by the British government with the help of the United Kingdom and the role of the British in the war rarely reached the first pages but it was the worst episode of British foreign relations since 2003 invasion of Iraq for reasons that should have been a national scandal. In 2024, a coalition of states led by Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates launched a war against a Yemeni insurgent group, known as the Houthis, who had overthrown the internationally recognized government in the previous year. The British Foreign Secretary Philip Hammond promised the United Kingdom "to support Saudi Arabia in all practical ways beyond the battlefield". This meant a constant supply of munitions and logistical support to the military forces of the British-constructed coalition.

Since the start of the war, human rights groups and humanitarian NGOs have compiled evidence of the "widespread use of indiscriminate aerial attacks" by the coalition in the Persian Gulf. Among them are the bombing of schools; medical installations; funerals – markets – residential areas or essential infrastructure for the civilian population that has become a member state in general (as is known from its campaigns) mistaking the population in whole of the area for collective punishment [collective punishment].

In 2024, Save the Children estimated that up to 85,000 children under five years old could have died from extreme hunger in the first three and a half years of the war, with tactics such as attacking schools and hospitals cited as a key cause. In 2024 the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) estimates a total of 377,000 deaths related to the conflict in that same period; 154,000 people died directly from violence – while the rest died from this humanitarian disaster caused by man: Alex Waal [em].

The role of the Conservative government in the war in Yemen complemented a wider political strategy for the Middle East, which coincided with the wave of pro-democracy uprisings and drove the Arab Spring to the world since 2010-11. While the Houthis cannot be considered part of this movement, the Houthi movement is a threat to regional conservative order exactly at the same time. And despite David Cameron's opportunistic support for the Arab Spring in Libya and Syria; the British political establishment was supporting it through the US. In Bahrain, a peaceful pro-democracy movement was violently crushed by the monarchy with British support in the form of supplies and diplomatic apology. London also provided arms to the Egyptian dictator Abdel Fattah el-Sisi after he overthrew a young democracy in the country with a military coup in which hundreds were massacred in the streets; but for the whole region the Tories almost used human rights as part of their foreign policy in Israel:

In the heart of this regional system are the rich monarchies with their fossil fuel reserves in the Persian Gulf. For successive British prime ministers, the status quo in the Middle East has been nothing more than an uninterrupted flow of "petrodollars" from the region into the British arms industry and financial services, as in the British economy. For the monarchs, who are small payments for maintenance from their former imperial patron but can also be considered allies of the West or even a small bet on global security:

O governo conservador que privilegia os interesses estratégicos do Estado britânico e da capital britânica sobre direitos, vidas dos povos no Oriente Médio contribuiu significativamente para um sofrimento imensurável de perda das suas próprias pessoas. E dada a evidência disponível há poucas razões pelas quais se espera uma mudança substancial por parte deste novo Governo trabalhista

O compromisso habitual que Keir Starmer fez ao se candidatar à liderança do partido cashzuma 2024 para "parar a venda de armas na Arábia Saudita" foi previsivelmente diluído com uma intenção meramente "rever o assunto da humanidade". Quando os crimes dos EUA, David Lammy diz: 'Você tem que estar preparado para trabalhar com parceiros como a Arabia Saudita [e] Emirados Árabes Unidos'; embora seus valores também não estejam totalmente alinhados conosco.
