The "tag team" format can be altered in a few different ways, but the formula is quite similar regardless of how you switch things up.

The tag team rules don't differ too much from the standard poker tournament. The main difference is that instead of one player playing one stack of chips to the end of the competition, players can tag in and out of the hot seat to play a few betting rounds.

Each player can take as long as they want at the table - betting as many hands and rounds as they'd like - so long as every player from each team plays in the tournament at some point.

Though this rule may vary between each location.

In the WSOP Tag Team Event, each player has to play one full "round of blinds" or the team will be disqualified.

Another important rule that is incorporated in almost every tag team tournament, is that players cannot tag in-and-out during a hand. This means if you start a hand, you must play the hand through to the end before you can switch out for another member of the team.

Bottom line: You can only tag-in another team member between hands.

Other versions of tag-team poker may vary the rules slightly, for example, the number of players allowed in a team, the duration of time each player must play, the frequency of substitutions and so on. But these are the most common rules.
